CATALYST FOR BUSINESS GROWTH

The Chamber's large and diverse membership creates an ideal environment to offer a variety of programs and resources that support and help achieve its members' goals. From networking and promotional opportunities to relocation assistance and legislative advocacy, the Chamber promotes economic growth, allowing companies and organizations to reach their full potential. Through seminars and workshops, the Chamber educates its members in different aspects of business such as human resources, sales techniques, social media and cybersecurity. Advisory committees offer plentiful opportunities for community involvement, and special events let businesses showcase their products and services to a wide audience of prospective clients and business partners, such as the biannual Carlsbad Village Faire, which brings 100,000 patrons to the community in one single day.

CONVENER OF LEADERS AND INFLUENCERS

Creating a collective voice for companies and organizations, the Chamber brings together regional leaders, influencers and entrepreneurs, businesses and professional individuals. This unique core competency results in different types of resources that can be put to work towards a common goal. Members of the Chamber can accomplish collectively what they cannot achieve individually and play important roles in shaping Carlsbad's future. The Chamber organizes and directs the efforts of all who share the desire to improve the community and the conditions under which business is conducted.

CHAMPION FOR A STRONGER COMMUNITY

In the interest of building a robust and varied economy, the Chamber listens to the community, while working tirelessly to support education, tourism, philanthropy, transportation, civic engagement and other cornerstones of a strong community foundation. The Chamber's committees focus on areas ranging from sustainability, technology and legislative matters to emergency preparedness and business resources. Members are encouraged to become involved in the Chamber's committees to make lasting business contacts and relationships, as well as to make a difference in their community by empowering citizens to take responsibility for what happens in the places they conduct business.

The Tourism Rebound

Most of us San Diegans are well aware that we live in paradise. All we need to do is take a look at the national weather map on any given day and we end up with a smile on our face. And we are not the only ones who know that

BRET SCHANZENBACH

CARLSBAD CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

San Diego is a slice of heaven. People have been flocking here for vacations for decades. And we are certainly glad to accept their economic investment in our community as they pour discretionary dollars into creating their own memorable experiences.

Those visitors have made tourism a major economic driver for the San Diego region in general and Carlsbad in particular. According to the San Diego Tourism Authority, 1 out of 8 people employed in our county is employed in the tourism industry. That is nearly 200,000 people countywide. The economic impact of tourism in San Diego County is $12.7 Billion. Yes, that is "billion" with a "B".

Carlsbad is one of the leaders in tourism for our county. Carlsbad has long been a desirable tourist destination. Carlsbad's last "normal" full fiscal year pre-Covid generated $27M in transient occupancy tax (TOT) revenue. In San Diego County that was second only to the city of San Diego itself. With our beautiful beaches, stunning resorts and championship golf courses, there is much to desire in Carlsbad. The opening of LEGOLAND in 1999 ramped up our tourism exponentially. In the 20+ year since LEGOLAND opened, hotels have popped up at staggering pace – nearly 1.5 hotels/year on average. Currently we have 43 hotels in Carlsbad with more on the way.

But how is tourism doing since Covid struck? Obviously, 2020 was a rough year with most of the year being marred by mass shut downs. 2021 was definitely much better, and 2022 is off to a great start.

Tourism can be broken down into a couple of categories: individual/family visitors (also known as leisure travel) and group/conference/business travel. The summer of 2021 saw record numbers of leisure travel tourists and tourism dollars here in Carlsbad. Multiple metrics are tracked in the tourism industry with the two most common being occupancy rates and average daily rates (ADR). Occupancy is the percentage of available rooms that are filled. ADR is the average price paid for a room across all our occupied hotel rooms. Summer of 2021 saw strong occupancy and ADR that exceeded the ADR for summer of 2019 (i.e. the "BC" rates). Most in the industry were predicting a strong tourist summer season as there was a lot of pent-up demand from the previous 12+ months of restrictions. People were anxious to get out and create new memories. It was satisfying to see such strong occupancy rates after the debacle of 2020. Carlsbad, in particular experienced that bounce. The really encouraging statistic is that hotels didn't have to go into the "discount" game here in Carlsbad to attract those visitors, thus allowing our average daily rate to exceed even our pre-pandemic averages.

However, tourist season typically ends on Labor Day weekend. Then we enter the business, corporate and group travel time of year. That transition did lead to steeper than usual declines in the fall of 2021. Most travel experts expected that. In talking with our larger resorts here in Carlsbad, they all expect group and corporate business to take up to two years to fully rebound from Covid shut downs. The San Diego Tourism Authority is predicting that business travel will not fully recover to pre-pandemic levels until 2025.

Spring Break, however, has been very generous to Carlsbad. Visit Carlsbad recently shared that occupancy rates in March, 2022 were 75.5%. That is nearly identical to what it was in 2019, which saw occupancy at 76.5%. The ADR, however, was stronger in March, 2022 than in March, 2019. This year the ADR was $209 vs. $174 in 2019. Kim Sidioriak, the CEO of Visit Carlsbad shared, "The first quarter of 2022 is showing positive movement in terms of hotel performance in Carlsbad. While the Omicron surge in early 2022 created some cancellations or postponements for meetings and conferences, our hotel performance is trending upward as we move through spring. Our hotels have welcomed healthy occupancies for March and into April due to continued pent up travel demand bolstered by a rolling spring break school schedule, the LPGA JTBC Classic at Aviara, the Flower Fields bloom, and larger advertising campaign investments from Visit Carlsbad with our "Growing Good Times" campaign."

Thankfully, Covid concerns are decreasing for travelers. There are new travel impediments, however, as gas prices skyrocket. Kim shared, "According to traveler sentiment conducted by Longwoods International, most American travelers are no longer citing concerns about COVID-19 as an impediment to traveling. However, we are also closely watching the impact of inflation, gas prices and the war in Ukraine on the wider travel industry's ability to make a full recovery."

Adding to these external pressures on tourism are internal challenges, especially the labor shortage. Labor shortages have hit the hospitality industry harder than other industries as we exited the forced shut downs. Unfortunately, the complexities of this shortage are beyond any simple turn key solutions. Our hospitality businesses may be coping with short staffs for quite some time. These shortages challenge our hotels and resorts who pride themselves on the level of service they provide. But with no end in sight to these staffing deficits, everyone is having to innovate and adapt.

Despite the external and internal challenges, tourism is continuing to rebound strongly in Carlsbad. As we head toward the traditional summer travel season, let's all share the message that "Carlsbad is Calling".

CARPAL TUNNEL SYNDROME:

Signs, Symptoms, Causes and Treatments

Common hand and wrist problem can be prevented and treated

You wake in the night with a painful tingling sensation in your fingers — or no sensation at all.

As your condition advances, you have trouble holding the steering wheel to drive or typing on your computer keyboard. You experience weakness in your hand and begin dropping small objects.

If these signs and symptoms sounds familiar, you may have carpal tunnel syndrome, which is a very common problem. The condition is often associated with overuse of the hands and wrist and other factors.

"It's important to get evaluated if you develop symptoms of carpal tunnel syndrome to get a diagnosis and rule out any other problem," says Lorenzo Pacelli, MD, an orthopedic surgeon at Scripps Clinic Carmel Valley and Scripps Clinic Torrey Pines. "Talk to your doctor if your condition is interfering with your sleep at night and your day-to-day activities."

"Carpal tunnel syndrome is not something you want to ignore because if it goes untreated for a period of time, it can cause permanent damage to the nerve and use of your hand," Dr. Pacelli says.

What is carpal tunnel syndrome?

Picture a tunnel running from your forearm through the center of your wrist. This narrow passage is called the carpal tunnel. Your median nerve, which supplies feeling and function to your thumb and first three fingers, runs through it.

Carpal tunnel syndrome occurs when the median nerve becomes compressed, either by a swollen ligament or inflammation of the tendons within the tunnel. Pressure on the nerve may cause numbness and tingling and pain in the wrist, hand or fingers (excluding your little finger).

What are the early signs?

Early signs of carpal tunnel syndrome often involve tingling or mild pain in the hands or wrist, usually during the night. "As the condition worsens, tingling may happen during the day. Hand weakness may make it hard to grasp small objects and perform other activities," Dr. Pacelli says.

Who gets carpal tunnel syndrome — and why?

Carpal tunnel syndrome affects up to 5% of the adult population in the United States. The condition is often the result of a combination of factors that increase pressure on the median nerve and tendons in the carpal tunnel.

Age, heredity and gender are among several risk factors.

Change the way you work by making adjustments to promote correct posture and positioning and reduce repetitive stress.

Carpal tunnel syndrome is most often diagnosed between the ages of 40-60.

Women are three times more likely than men to experience the condition. Fluid build-up in the ligaments during pregnancy, menopause and before menstruation may trigger some cases.

Inflammatory conditions, such as rheumatoid arthritis, wrist injury or dislocation, diabetes and obesity are other risk factors.

Work activities that involve repetitive use of the wrist or hand may also contribute to nerve compression.

Treatments for carpal tunnel syndrome

Treatments range from rest to over-the-counter medication to physical therapy and surgery. A non-surgical approach may be all you need to get better.

"Resting the affected area for a period may be enough to ease inflammation. Also helpful is taking breaks more often or doing less of the activity that is causing you pain," Dr. Pacelli says.

Next steps – if needed – may include using a splint to sleep, physical therapy and anti-inflammatory medication. "Sometimes we'll do a cortisone injection to help reduce the swelling around the tendon to help to take pressure off the nerves," Dr. Pacelli says.

DAVID WETHERHOLD, MD
CHIEF MEDICAL INFORMATION OFFICER
SCRIPPS HEALTH

Physical therapy can help restore functional mobility. At Scripps, physical therapists or occupational therapists provide hand therapy services.

Yoga is an alternative therapy that has been shown to reduce pain and improve grip strength.

When is surgery an option?

If pain or numbness are severe or do not improve with non-surgical treatments, surgery is an option.

Carpal tunnel release is one of the common procedures in the United States. In this procedure, the surgeon cuts through a ligament in the wrist to relieve pressure on the median nerve. The procedure is done with numbing medicine.

"It's a very effective procedure. Recovery is two to three weeks. The hand stays a little weak for up to a month. But most of the time, the symptoms go away within the first week of the surgery," Dr. Pacelli says.

4 tips for reducing risk of carpal tunnel syndrome

The following tips can help reduce your risk of carpal tunnel syndrome:

1. Change the way you work

Make adjustments to promote correct posture and positioning and reduce repetitive stress. As you work, your wrists should be in the same position as they are when you dangle your arms at your sides.

2. Take frequent breaks from repetitive tasks

Avoid excessive exertion of your hand and wrist muscles. Minimize vibration from machines or tools.

3. Stretch your wrists before you start tasks and during breaks.

Learn to do isometric and stretching exercises to strengthen the muscles in the wrists and hands.

"Do exercises where you stretch your fingers and redistribute swelling around the tendons," Dr. Pacelli says. "Wear protective braces if you are susceptible to carpal tunnel syndrome."

4. Simple wrist exercises for carpal tunnel syndrome

There are simple wrist exercises that are designed to help prevent and treat carpal tunnel syndrome.

A physical or occupational therapist can help you strengthen your hand and wrist. They can teach you how to do specific hand stretching exercises.

IF YOU SUFFER FROM BPU, THE FIRST THING WE SHRINK IS YOUR ANXIETY.

IT STARTS WITH CARING. Men suffering from BPH symptoms can avoid the negative side-effects of medication and painful surgery altogether. Our skilled urologists provide an alternative to traditional surgery with the UroLift® System, typically a one-time outpatient procedure that provides rapid relief and recovery for men living with symptoms of an enlarged prostate. The goal is to relieve your BPH symptoms so you can get back to doing the things you want to do.
