Paola Richard, native of Rome and Founder of GelatoLove offers guilt-free dessert to celebrate everyday life and special occasions.

Does the word "Dessert" make you feel guilty or festive?

Paul Rozin is a psychologist at University of Pennsylvania who designed an imaginative survey for American eaters. The story is narrated in a book by legendary food journalist Michael Pollan: In Defense of Food: An Eater's Manifesto. When in one experiment he showed the words "Chocolate Cake" to a group of Americans, "Guilt" was the top response. If that strikes you as unexceptional, consider the response of French eaters to the same prompt: "Celebration."

The answers he collected are a pretty good indicator of a collective anxiety about food.

The original dream of GelatoLove was to design a guilt free dessert to celebrate everyday life, as well as special occasions. For those that dream of an Italian gelato that is creamy, tastes amazing AND contains 80% LESS SUGAR ADDED than regular ice cream: the dream has come true with GelatoLove!

The Carlsbad company founded in 2015 is cutting edge in food innovation. At GelatoLove the traditional Italian gelato recipes are combined with the 'California' devotion to healthy and local ingredients. All fresh fruit is sourced from local farmers like the legendary Carlsbad Strawberry Company. GelatoLove is also a partner of the North County based dairy manufacturer Hollandia Dairy, which is also Humane Certified. It is also the first company in the world to use Allulose, a low-calorie sugar found in fruits like kiwis, raisins and figs. It improves sugar metabolism in the body, without the sugar rush.

"We hope to bring a positive contribution to food manufacturing and design in Carlsbad," states Paola Richard, native of Rome and Founder of GelatoLove. "All our recipes are designed to mark a dessert revolution. One that can bring joy without health concerns".

At P.F. Chang's, our Chefs celebrate the cultures that inspire us by using real, whole ingredients, recipes crafted with purpose.

Food served with honor

In the 1960's Cecilia Chiang was flourishing in the wild success of her Chinese restaurant, The Mandarin in San Francisco. Esteemed columnist Herb Caen of the San Francisco Chronicle described it as "The best Chinese food east of the Pacific Ocean." Later Cecilia would be honored with a James Beard Lifetime Achievement Award.

Flash forward to 1974 and Cecilia Chiang has a second location in Beverly Hill feeding celebrities like John Lennon and Yoko Ono. That year her son, Phillip stepped in to run the restaurant, and run the restaurant he did!

Philip was a believer in introducing Street Fare foods, and soon he would have a spin-off location in Los Angeles, called the Mandarette. In the 1990's, Phillip was approached by one of his regulars, Paul Fleming who knew that the food must be shared with the world, and with a simple handshake, P.F. Chang's was born.

Made with Heart, and served with Honor, this is the food philosophy we live by. Our Chefs celebrate the cultures that inspire us by using real, whole ingredients, recipes crafted with purpose, traditional cooking techniques, and food served with honor. Every day. In every restaurant.

We believe in letting our food tell the stories of the culture and heritage behind every dish. Our recipes are purposely simple, featuring a few clean ingredients selected for their flavor and nutritional benefits.

We believe in the simple time-honored tradition of wok cooking – a 2,000-year-old technique that uses a 700-degree flame to preserve the nutritional value and bring out the flavor of each ingredient. Our scratch-cooking techniques allow us to honor the land, the seeds, the farmers, the cultures, and you, with every dish, drink, and dessert we create. We are looking forward to serving YOU!
